DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-4 and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US 2004/0130538 ("538").

Per claim 1 and 14, 538 teaches an LCD device with a digitizer comprising: an LCD panel [110], and a backlight for providing light to the LCD panel [132]; a lamp provided at one side of the support main for emitting light [136]; a lamp housing surrounding the lamp, and having an opening [138]; and a digitizer having one end thereof inserted to the opening of the lamp housing, and detecting coordinates of a predetermined point [sensor 134]. 538 lacks a support main having therein but it was well known to house displays to keep the part of the cell contained. Accordingly it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill at the time of invention to combine the well known support with 538.

Per claim 2, 538 teaches the LCD device of claim 1, wherein the digitizer is a sensor for detecting the coordinates of the predetermined point in an Electromagnetic mode [see paragraph 0007].

Per claim 3, 538 teaches the LCD device of claim 1, wherein the backlight includes: a light-guiding plate provided to be adjacent to the lamp for uniformly irradiating the light emitted from the lamp to an upper side [132]. 538 lacks a reflecting plate provided at a lower surface of the light-guiding plate, for reflecting the light emitted from the lamp to the upper side. However it was well known to use reflecting layers to improve efficiency. Accordingly it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill at the time of invention to combine the well known reflector with 538.

Per claim 4, 538 teaches the LCD device of claim 3, but lacks the lamp housing formed of a metal material having stiffness and elasticity. However it was well known to form the housing of metal for its high reflectance. Accordingly it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill at the time of invention.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 5-13 and 15-16 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
